

Don't you thnk the consumer should have the right to take his cell phone number with him if he changes wireless companies? It is a big inconvenience, and I want you to fight to make cell numbers portable. Customer service is getting worse. Just this week 2 major carriers announced plans of laying off customer service operators to be replaced by computer voice technology. If the consumer could change carriers with portability the companies would become more consumer centric. Portability is available in other countries. Stalling tactics have been allowed long enough. Give the consumer portability with wireless.
